

A Conference in Memory of Thomas Bringley

to be held at the Courant Institute on Saturday, March 28, 2009

The Courant Institute of Mathematical Sciences at New York University is hosting a day conference in memory of Dr. Thomas Tyler Bringley. The speakers will discuss problems related to Tom's mathematical interests. Professor Charles Peskin will present on Tom's dissertation work.

Invited Speakers:

Paul Atzberger (UCSB, Mathematics)
Aaron Brown (AQR Capital Management)
Steve Childress (NYU, Mathematics)
Boyce Griffith (NYU, Medicine)

Yoichiro Mori (U Minn, Mathematics)
Charles Peskin (NYU, Mathematics)
Arjun Raj (MIT, Physics)
Jun Zhang (NYU, Physics)

Tom Bringley passed away Sunday, June 22 [2008] after a lengthy battle with cancer. Tom came to Courant in the fall of 2003 after undergraduate work at Duke in math and physics. He was a superb student and colleague who continued to excel in his coursework and research despite the most adverse of circumstances. He was brilliant and kind and will truly be missed and long remembered as a colleague and friend.

- Leslie Greengard, Director, Courant Institute

Breakfast, Coffee, and Lunch will be provided. Please RSVP to Saverio Spagnolie at sespagnolie@ucsd.edu. Abstracts and schedule are online at <http://math.nyu.edu/BringleyConference/>.
